

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS.

Judge Haynesworth Excused and Special Judge Ferguson Is Presiding. The Cook Case.

The court of common pleas convened Tuesday afternoon, Special Judge J. W. Ferguson, of Laurens, presiding. Special Judge H. J. Haynesworth was commissioned to hold both the general sessions and common pleas court, but after holding the general sessions court last week he returned to Newberry on Monday and asked to be excused this week on account of an engagement which called him North. He stated that the engagement was of a public as well as private nature and of such importance that it could not well be postponed. Mr. Haynesworth was excused and the Hon. J. W. Ferguson, of Laurens, who had already been commissioned to hold a special term of court for the hearing of equity cases next week, was asked to preside and consented, reaching Newberry Tuesday afternoon.

The first case taken up was that of Frances T. Britt vs. Elzylphia Garrett et al. The plaintiff was represented by J. F. J. Caldwell, of Greenwood, and L. W. Jones. The jury was empaneled but not sworn and after considerable argument as to the regularity of the pleadings, on motion of Johnstone & Welch, defendants' attorneys, the case was continued.

The case of E. Herbert Cook, through and by Colin M. Cook, as guardian ad litem, vs. the Carolina Manufacturing Company was taken up Wednesday. The suit is for the loss of a hand sustained by Mr. Cook while running a shaper, a very dangerous machine, for the company several months ago. The hand was caught in the machine and so badly mangled that amputation was necessary. The plaintiff was represented by Johnstone & Welch, the defendant company by Mower & Bynum, Schumpert & Holloway, and Hunt, Hunt & Hunter.

The examination of the witnesses was concluded yesterday afternoon and the arguments will be in this morning.

NO CARNIVAL.

Mayor Earhardt Replies to the Question Does Newberry Want a Carnival.

Mayor Earhardt yesterday afternoon received the following telegram, dated Chester:

"Mayor of city: Has there been a carnival held in your city this season? Would one be favorably received by your people? Please answer immediately my expense."

"W. H. SWANSON."

Mayor Earhardt replied that he did not desire that a carnival be held in Newberry during his administration.

The carnival held here last December is well remembered.

LOSS BY FIRE.

Mr. J. B. Kempson Loses His Cotton House, Cotton Buggies and Farming Utensils.

Mr. J. B. Kempson, of near Slighs, lost his cotton house, two bales of seed cotton, two buggies, and all farming implements by fire at about midnight on Monday night. It is thought that the fire was of incendiary origin; that part of the cotton was stolen and the house set on fire to conceal the theft. The house was about seventy-five yards from Mr. Kempson's dwelling. When discovered the fire was burning through the roof and a near-by building had caught. This latter building and other near-by buildings were saved by prompt work.

A RIPE OLD AGE.

Neighbors, Friends and Relatives of Mr. Shelton Garrett Celebrate His Ninety-First Birthday.

Prosperity, S. C., November 12. — On Saturday, November 7, 1903, some of the neighbors, friends and relatives of Mr. Shelton Garrett met at the home of his son-in-law, Mr. James A. Wise, in honor of his ninety-first birthday. Four score and eleven years! A good, ripe old age! Few reach such an age, yet Mr. Garrett gets around with agility. In speaking of his life he said: "The end must come, and oh, may it be sweet!" To fall calmly and sweetly on sleep, is the pure wish of the calm, sober, thoughtful mind. In Him who said, "Come unto me all ye that are weary and heavy laden, and I will give you rest," this is an assured possibility.

The crowd gathered in honor of this anniversary represented life's journey in a very demonstrative way. "from the cradle to the grave." There was the helpless infant of five weeks; all the grades of childhood and youth were there; the gay young life just at the threshold of responsibility was there; the fathers and the mothers with faces furrowed by cares were there; the grandparents who had lived to see the children settled in life were there; the great grandparents who seem to be waiting and watching for the messenger were there—all full of joy.

The old seemed happy in the memory of their young days. Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Shealy, of Pine Ridge; Mr. and Mrs. Noah Fulmer, of Etheridge; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wise; Mr. Orlando Dickert; Mr. and Mrs. William Long; and Mrs. Missouri Long were those who could talk of the good olden times before the war.

As their custom is the long table in the yard was in evidence, and about 12 o'clock the ladies were very busy making ready for us to give attention to the inner man. In a short time the table was filled to the heaping up. A short prayer was made and the blessing asked, then the order given, "help yourself." All went at it with earnestness. They all ate in about one hour and a half and were filled, and they took up many baskets full.

After dinner the older folks sat in groups and chatted of the old times while the young folks in the parlor sang and listened to songs and the younger folks in the front yard enjoyed their games and sports.

Then came the home-going—the separation—the sad part. The day had passed away in pleasantness, but as some one of the crowd remarked, "We shall never all enjoy another day like this in this world." It makes one sad.

November 7 has passed into history though not recorded by earth's historian. The Great Historian made many entries in his great book. May these all be records of pleasant words and kind deeds.

Long live Bro. Garrett to see the return of his natal day, and have his neighbors, friends and relatives join him in celebrating it. God's richest benediction on him and the community in which he lives.

P. H. E. D.
